Mexico Calls 10,000 Troops In Civil War

Port of Vera Cruz Is Termed "No Man's Land" in Rebellion

General Jose Gonzalo Escobar, Commanding Federal Expeditionary Force, Prepares for Offensive Against Insurrectionists Under General Arnulfo R. Gomez and Hector Almada in Southern Republic.

DE LA HUERTA, FOR MER PRESIDENT, HEAVILY GUARDED IN HOLLYWOOD

Nuevo Laredo, Rail Center on Rio Grande River, Becomes New Vortex in Military Activities of Political Revolution—Three Columns of Rebel Soldiers Plan Attack.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 10.—General Jose Gonzalo Escobar, commanding the federal expeditionary force in the state of Vera Cruz, today called for ten thousand additional men for his campaign against revolutionary elements under General Arnulfo R. Gomez and Hector Almada. These soldiers have been ordered from the state of Sonora, where they have been fighting against the Yaqui Indians.

According to presidential headquarters, Gen. Escobar will launch his offensive with not less than twenty thousand men.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10.—The port of Vera Cruz is now "No Man's Land," in the impending clash between federal troops and those of the Almada-Gomez faction, according to Adolfo De La Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico, who today announced that federal forces had evacuated the city.

Another Great City.
Woman's Will.
Uneducated Leucocytes.
Gruesomely Effective.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

[The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of the writer and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of the Review-Tribune.]

YOU may soon see another "great city in America."

Energetic business men of Oakland and San Francisco on opposite sides of the bay consider and discuss earnestly a combination of Oakland and San Francisco into one great city, to take in, by amicable negotiation, other important communities with a short radius of the center of the bay, midway between San Francisco and Oakland.

SOME local ambitions and competitions, NOT local jealousies, are to be overcome. When that is done, and a suitable name for the great city selected, the fourth city in the United States, in population, will be "Greater San Francisco-Oakland," with 1,600,000 inhabitants.

That would be a blessing for Detroit and Los Angeles now running neck and neck, giving them a useful pacemaker, something to shoot at.

MR. ARNOLD, secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, immediately wishes you to know that if any such step is taken in San Francisco and Oakland, Los Angeles will spread out and take in a population amounting to 2,200,000, which seems to be a very exact figure.

IN the old days when women struggled for the vote, and men of heavier type opposed them, you were told "women lack the qualities of men, especially his dogged determination."

Now Mercedes Gleitz, young British typewriter girl, swims the English Channel, after failing in seven attempts. How many men would show more dogged determination than that?

WHAT is more remarkable is the dogged determination with which such young women go on hammering away at their typewriting machines month after month, year after year, patiently correcting the mistakes of men that employ them, enduring ill temper and bad manners.

A "STRANGE malady" attacks natives of Unalaska, a small native settlement on the Alaska coast. The 700 inhabitants may be wiped out before help can reach them.

Ordinary measles, that white races with "educated Leucocytes" easily overcome, have wiped out an entire village in Alaska. Smallpox of course is deadly, killing everybody once it strikes, and the worst diseases founded on vicious living have practically killed off the inhabitants of Pacific Islands.

U. S. NAVY BAND WINS PLAUDITS IN CONCERTS

Police-firemen Fund Benefit Proves Success.

CROWDS ATTEND

SUPREME COURT RULES AGAINST H. F. SINCLAIR IN OIL CASE

Action Follows Order Revoking U. S. Pact With Doheny.

MOVE EXPECTED

Elk Hills Reserve Contract Was Held "Tainted."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The supreme court today ordered cancelled the lease of Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil man, to the Teapot Dome, Wyoming, naval oil reserve.

The action was not a surprise as the court had already cancelled the lease of E. L. Doheny, California oil magnate, to the Elk Hills reserve. It said that Doheny's lease was "tainted with corruption."

Victory for Government.

The decision, which for three years has been endeavoring through special counsel appointed by President Coolidge to break the oil leases negotiated by Ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall.

The court, in a sweeping decision, found that the whole leasing transaction between Sinclair's Mammoth Oil company and Fall was "shot through with fraud."

The high court also found that there was no authority in law for the lease. The court ignored the government's contention that the lease was obtained through fraud and collusion between Fall and Sinclair.

Criminal cases also arose out of the leases. Doheny and Fall were acquitted of conspiracy here by a jury last winter. Fall and Sinclair are to go on trial for conspiracy on next Monday in criminal court here.

WELLSVILLE'S HIGH GRID SQUAD DEFEATS MONACA

PENNSYLVANIA SCHOOL ELEVEN LOSES, 6 TO 13

Two Long Runs, One by Visitors, for Touchdowns.

FIRST VICTORY

Forward Pass Factor in Ground-gaining by Klinck Team.

In a football battle that saw the Orange and Black of Wellsville in a decidedly better form than their initial appearance on the gridiron this fall, Coach Earl Klinck's eleven hung a 13 to 6 defeat on Monaca high Saturday afternoon at Nicholson Field.

Both teams appeared to be about equally matched, the heads-up game played by the locals deciding the issue. Wellsville's eleven showed its best form in the second period, while the visitors were at their peak in the final quarter. Both squads used a large number of plays around the ends and forward passes for most of their gains, neither being able to do a whole lot on line plunges.

There was little to choose between the teams in the opening period, a 45-yard gain by Eschbacher giving the Orange a slight edge.

In the second period, Klinck's charges got started and Glenn, Eschbacher, Calhoun and Irons made gains that paved the way for the team's first touchdown, Irons going over the final chalk mark through right tackle. Calhoun made the extra point on a run around right end.

Monaca immediately revived and started a drive that narrowly missed its objective, the Wellsville goal line. Ford caught Calhoun's kick-off and tore up the field for a 59-yard gain. A forward pass from Ford to Flaminia was good for the first down. Clarke and Ford made another first down, carrying the ball to Wellsville's 8.

At this juncture came one of the most spectacular feats of the contest. Fox, Monaca fullback, was given the ball for a job at the Wellsville line. He fumbled. Calhoun, Wellsville's fleet halfback, swooped down on the ball, scooped it up and, given good interference by his teammates, ran 97 yards for Wellsville's second marker. The try for point failed.

The visitors strove desperately in the third quarter to even up the count with Ford, E. Clarke and Flaminia making gains of 10 to 20 yards on forward passes and endrums but always failing to reach the Orange goal. Calhoun and Eschbacher played right back at them, however, the former tearing off a 35-yard run at the start of the period, while Eschbacher, intercepting a pass, converted it into a 20-yard gain.

In the final period, Monaca was still hammering away for a touchdown and finally came through.

Ford, catching Calhoun's punt on the 40 yard line, penetrated the Wellsville defense for a 60-yard run and a touchdown, but D. Clarke failed to make the extra point.

Calhoun, Eschbacher and Irons were the outstanding Wellsville luminaries, while Ford, the visitors' left half, distinguished himself throughout the battle. The Wellsville line played real football all the way, however, and is deserving of much of the credit.

PATSY MILLER AT THE STRAND

"Painting the Town," Convulsive Farce, Opens Run.

Patsy Ruth Miller and Glenn Tryon are featured in the all star cast of "Painting the Town," a Universal-Jewell-William James Craft Production which will be shown today and tomorrow at the Strand theatre.

This convulsive farce has occasioned a small sensation in the industry, for it brings out, in addition to the well known beauty and charm of Miss Miller, an astonishing young comedian who has not, hitherto, been looked upon as star material. In "Painting the Town" Glenn Tryon made the projection room audience hush so loud at Universal City that Carl Laemmle, president of the company, hastened to offer him a five-year contract, which, of course, he accepted.

"Painting the Town" is a rollicking farce comedy of a small town hick who "crashes" Broadway with a score of trick inventions. In the role of bucolic wisecracker, Glenn Tryon is almost the whole show and establishes himself as one of the most promising comedians in the business. William James Craft, the director, also wins a new standing in the industry by reason of the picture, say those who have seen it. The story, which in no small way contributes to the laughmaking value of the picture, was written by Harry O. Hoyt.

Members of the all-star cast, in addition to Patsy Ruth Miller and Glenn Tryon, include George Fawcett, Charles Gerard, Sidney Bracy, Monte Collins and Max Ascher.

Diamond Importers in America are buying much larger and more valuable stones than formerly.

Roll tops that can be tilted to the rear like the lids of old-fashioned deeks are used on English automobiles.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—States' Rights—Democratic doctrine—begin to look like seating two Republicans—William S. Vare of Pennsylvania and Frank L. Smith of Illinois—in the United States senate in December.

A few months ago the prospects were overwhelmingly the other way. If Vare and Smith get in, they'll stay in.

They can be excluded by a bare majority vote, which appeared to be a certainty until recently. They can be expelled only by a two-thirds majority vote, which nobody has considered a possibility any of the time.

VARE'S and Smith's right to be seated at all was questioned on the ground that they spent too much money, not to be elected, but on their pre-election, primary campaigns—to be nominated, in the first place. This will be recalled as the subject that Senator Jim Reed's slash (and committee) poked into so extensively.

The opposing argument was that such preliminaries were nobody's business but Vare's and Smith's own states—that the senate was limited to making sure they were regularly elected, on the face of the returns, about which there wasn't any doubt. It was a good, sound States' Rights talk.

CURIOSLY enough—that is, it would have been curious if politicians cared a hoot for principles—the rival parties didn't line up on the proposition according to Hoyle.

The Republican senators, taking the States' Rights side, were for seating Vare and Smith—because they needed their votes.

Nearly all the Democratic senators chucking States' Rights into the discard, were for excluding them—with a view of gumming the Republicans' cards.

The Progressive senators, being ag'in' the gov'ment, were with the Democrats—on that issue, anyway.

THERE will be in the next senate: Forty straight or nearly straight Republicans, not counting Vare and Smith, who can't vote on seating themselves; forty-seven Democrats; six Progressives and a Farmer-Laborite, which means substantially the same thing.

Forty to fifty-four? Senator Blease, however, was an exception among the Democrats. He stood pat for States' Rights and said he'd vote to seat Vare and Smith. It was reckoned he might have two or three Democratic followers. Still, with fourteen votes to jigger with—It looked pretty billions for Vare and Smith.

SUCH was the landscape six or eight months ago.

Since then the scene has changed. States' Rights didn't look like much of an issue when Gov. Ritchie of Maryland, campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, took it up awhile back. It looked too academic—no popular appeal.

Most unexpectedly—to most Democratic politicians—it's turned out to be a cracking good issue. Other Democrats have jumped into the situation and are struggling to take it away from Ritchie. They're scrapping for it, each trying to out-yell the other, about what a dandy States' Righter he is.

WELL, a loyal States' Rights Democratic senator can't very well oppose seating Vare and Smith.

Fourteen votes can melt like spring snow in that kind of a sun.

Adriatic shipyards are idle. The latest tests made by the U. S. Bureau of Standards show that Mars is warm enough to sustain life.

Honesty In Baseball

The New York Yankees, perhaps the greatest baseball team that ever represented a major league in the World's series, won their championship title in four straight games over the Pittsburgh Pirates, National league pennant winner, thus marking the first time any American league team ever made a clean sweep and the second time in twenty-four series that the feat has been accomplished without a tie game blotting the slate.

And after fourteen years the junior circuit recovered from the shock suffered in 1914, when the Boston Braves, the so-called miracle team which won the National league pennant in a hectic race, jumped into the classic and made the all-star Philadelphia Athletics look like a minor league club by winning in four straight games.

The Yankees' victory in Saturday's game, when Johnny Miljus, the first-year twirler for the Pittsburgh club, made what has been termed a $40,000 wild throw with the bases loaded, thus permitting the winning run to trot home, was a good thing for baseball, for it silenced the skeptics, especially some of the so-called "tin horn" gamblers.

Repeatedly during the series, predictions had been made, and often supported with money, that the classic would go for six or seven games. In fact, the doubting Thomases were willing to risk any sum on their opinion that a Sunday game would be played in New York, explaining that "there is too much money involved" to end the clash in four straight games.

What have these skeptics to say today? A Sunday gate of $250,000 at the Yankee stadium was tossed into the discard when Miller Huggins' team won Saturday's battle with darkness slowly creeping over the soggy field and indicating that a drawn game might be the result.

And, too, how do they answer the fact that the New York and Pittsburgh clubs must return upwards of $300,000 to fans who purchased reserved seats for the unplayed fifth and sixth games of the series? And some of that money will be returned to East Liverpool.

Yes, the repetition of the Brave-Athletic series in 1914 by the Yankees and Pirates in 1927 was a triumph for baseball honesty.

Bill of Sweden

Prince Bill of Sweden is with us again, frankly "tickled to death to be back." And from the visible evidence, Americans are tickled to have him.

Bill, you see—and we violate no courtesy in speaking of the young man so familiarly, because he likes it—is different from the general run of royalty. He doesn't put on any airs or stand for any toadying. He doesn't seem to feel any urge to set an example to the world in manners, morals or anything else. He's a good mixed. A reporter or realtor or cop or a drummer or prize fighter or college professor can get along with him without a bit of trouble.

Bill's real business isn't royalizing or princifying. He's a hunter and explorer. He goes to wild, distant and dangerous places and has a good time roughing it, and then he comes back to civilization and quietly lectures about it to raise the money to go adventuring again. And wherever he goes, he seems to get along with people regardless of race or climate. He wants now to have a good look at our West, and we hope he gets it.

Sure, Bill's a "prince" in the American sense. And the best thing about it is he doesn't seem to know it. If the king business ever blows up, and he wants a job over here, he'll find plenty of invitations to come and grow up with the country.

Church Courtship

Dr. Ira Landrith of Chicago, addressing the World's Christian Endeavor Union at Denver, advocates courting booths in churches to attract young people.

"Why not?" he asks. "People get married in church, so why shouldn't they do their courting there?"

It is probably better, as he suggests, for a young man to court his sweetheart in a church than in a dance hall or a public park. Besides, there is a minister near by if the church-courting couple suddenly decide they want one. That's matrimonial "service."

At the same time, most church folk will be just as well satisfied to let nature take her course, rather than go out of the way to establish special church booths for courtship. If the booths were placed in the auditorium, as a modification of the old-fashioned pews, they might distract the young people's attention from the sermon. If they were placed outside, the patrons indulging in that sort of religious worship might not think it necessary to attend the church service at all.

Some critics say the World war accomplished nothing; but we notice that Germany, which resisted every organized effort for peace before the war, now wants compulsory arbitration.

Somebody laments the economic waste of straw hats and wants to know what to do with 'em. Take 'em along to Florida.

They're still arguing about who started the war, and who won it. One sure thing is that it wasn't the same fellow.

A uniform gasoline tax is proposed for the whole country. Sure, it will be the highest tax any state pays.

Missouri might find a stone mountain in the Ozarks, on which to carve that proposed monument to Jesse James.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Diary of a modern Peppys: Early up and it came upon me to write a sonnet which I did with fair ease and sent it to a magazine editor by messenger. And he telephoned that aside from it having 15 lines it was a sorry effort.

So to lunch with Gil Patten who used to write the Frank Merriwell stories under the pseudonym of Burt L. Standish and we played pool for the reckoning and he trounced me. And afterward through the town about, looking in shop windows and longing for great wealth.

In the evening with my wife to an Armenian restaurant and heard a man make strange, sweet music blowing into a sea shell and he told me he had mastered this accomplishment in Samoa. Later to sit on a bench in a public square in contented talk until the moon rode high.

New York this summer took to the white short dinner coat—known in tropical climates as the "monkey coat." It is worn with black evening trousers and comes to a point in the back like those snug-fitting short coats that tanbottle-capped bell-boys wear in smart hotels.

It is told of a prominent magazine editor who wore one earlier in the season to a very ultra dinner party. Afterward he was in a drawing room and lady to whom he had not been introduced caught her dress in a chair. He gallantly unfastened her. Turning to him sweetly, she said: "Thank you and will you please bring us a fresh pot of coffee."

Another gentleman wearing a monkey coat up the avenue at dusk bowed to a friend. The friend looked at him until a light of recognition came, then he exclaimed: "I thought you were a waiter going some place for change."

Manhattan, incidentally, has failed to stage a comeback for full evening clothes. For a time spike tails were seen, but in a short time wearers went back to the more comfortable dinner jacket—or Tuxedo. It is only at extremely formal functions full dress suit is seen. Even some dress suit rental parlors carry only Tuxedos, not longer being served at real four.

Postponing Strikes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 10.—Some 20 years ago a coal strike in Canada in the Province of Alberta led to the enactment by that country of an anti-strike and anti-lockout law, with comparatively severe penalties for its violation. Experience in the application and enforcement of that law has shown that prohibition of strikes and lockouts by legislation is a futile means of attempting to avert industrial disturbances, declared a voluminous report on "Postponing Strikes" which has just been issued by the Russell Sage Foundation.

On the other hand, it is stated, getting both sides in a labor dispute together for discussion and conciliation is shown to have been an effective means of governmental intervention in serious industrial controversies.

The report is based on a study made by Ben M. Selekman of the efforts to prevent strikes in Canada by means of this law, which is known as the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act. In a foreword Miss Mary van Kleeck, director of the Industrial Studies Department of the Sage Foundation, says it was not sought "to bring enlightenment to Canadians, but to look across the border toward our neighbor's mines, railroads, and factories, and to ask whether this act has accomplished its purposes satisfactorily and whether it can wisely be followed in this country."

"The continuous and efficient service of public utility industries, under conditions fair to employees, is essential to the welfare of the general community," continues Miss van Kleeck, "but it can not be secured by the short cut advocated by many influential citizens in recent years—legislative limitations on the right to strike."

"The study of Canada's experience in postponing, and so averting, strikes was undertaken because in the United States the wage earner's right to strike in transportation systems, coal mines, public utilities, or in any industry affecting large communities, is being challenged by a considerable section of the community and in the effort to prevent such strikes legislative measures are repeatedly proposing and sometimes enacting laws patterned after the Canadian act. These proposals are often based upon a mistaken idea of the actual scope and operation of this law."

How the Law Operates.

The Canadian act prohibits the declaration of a strike or lockout in mines, transportation systems, or other public utility industries until a report has been made by a board of conciliation and investigation. Penalties of fines ranging from $100 to $1,000 a day for employers and from $10 to $50 a day for employees are provided for violations of the law. Other industries than those named may avail themselves of the privileges of the act provided that both parties to the dispute join in such request.

The request for the services of a board, under the original act, must come from one of the parties to a dispute and be accompanied by a declaration that, failing an adjustment of the dispute, or a reference thereof to a board of conciliation and investigation, it is the belief of the applicant that a strike or lockout will result and that the necessary authority to declare such a strike or lockout has been obtained.

Thus the act provides for compulsory investigation, but not for compulsory arbitration. It merely postpones the right to strike or lockout until there has been investigation and report. If both parties agree to accept the board as final arbitrator, or if the findings of the board are acceptable to both, the dispute, of course, is at an end. If, however, the findings of the board are unsatisfactory to either or both of the parties, a strike or lockout then becomes legal.

The board, in each dispute, consists of three members appointed by the Minister of Labor, one upon the recommendation of each party and a chairman to be chosen by those two members. If either party fail to designate its representative, or the two party members fail to agree upon a chairman, then the minister may make the necessary appointments.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Garen, newly-weds. Miss Mary Best of this city and David Greer were married Monday at New Cumberland.

In case neither party to a dispute asks for the appointment of a board, an amendment to the act adopted in 1913 authorizes the minister to establish a board upon the application of any municipality interested, or upon the motion of the minister himself such action may be taken.

Law is Often Ignored.

Mr. Selekman found that in the course of 18 years 53 disputes were handled under the Canadian act and that in 490 cases—91 per cent—strikes were ended or averted. However, there were 425 strikes in which the law was completely ignored.

These figures confirm those made in a report to the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics by B. M. Squires ten years ago. For the period 1907-1916 Mr. Squires said there occurred within the scope of the act 222 disputes resulting in strikes or lockouts, and that in no less than 178 of these neither party had made application for a conciliation and investigation board as required by statute. In addition there were 26 cases of strikes or lockouts before the reports of the boards had been made, thus making a total of 264 illegal strikes and lockouts of a total of 222.

Mr. Selekman in his investigation for the Sage Foundation found that on Canadian railroads where conditions are fairly well stabilized the law has worked well; in coal mines where instability and chronic irregularity of employment prevail, it has failed. This failure is attributed more to difficulties inherent in the coal mining industry than the flaws in the law.

Mr. Selekman also points out that while the law was drafted on the principle of compulsion it has been administered largely as a measure to secure voluntary consultation and agreement. While 472 punishable violations of the law occurred in 18 years, only 18 of these were brought before the courts and none of these at the instance of the government. The government's policy has been against resorting to prosecutions of the violators of the act.

The boards of conciliation and investigation, it is stated, hear disputes not as judges called upon to render decisions, nor as investigators to discover the relevant facts for the education of the community, but as peace-makers called upon to create a friendly and help bring about amicable settlements. No definite code of industrial principles has been laid down or developed to govern decisions of the boards.

Contrasting the situation in the United States with that in Canada the report says: "Just as the policy of conciliation pursued by the Canadian government has won the cooperation of labor in the administration of the Industrial Disputes Act, so the policy of coercion sometimes pursued by governmental bodies in the United States has intensified the opposition of labor to similar laws."

"The Canadian experience indicates that governmental bodies can obtain the best results in industrial disputes, not by threatening arrest, imprisonment, or fines, but by intervening in a sympathetic and conciliatory spirit to find those terms upon which agreement can be reached."

Japan will build an emigration home at Kobe.

State Superintendent Denies Money Wasted on Education.

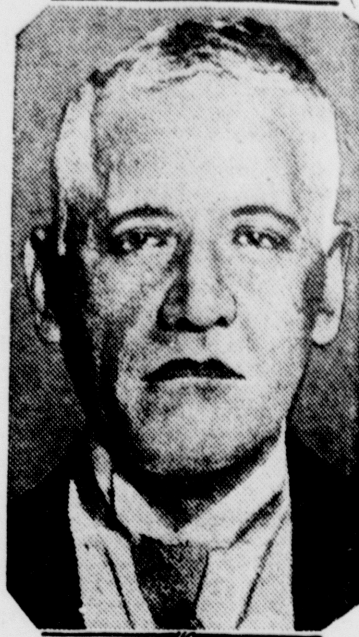

George M. Ford, state superintendent of schools, in a recent address before the Charleston Kiwanis club declared that only four counties of the state are ready for complete administrative, fiscal and supervisory county unit. These favored counties are Ohio, Brooke, Hancock and McDowell.

Categorical denials of a statement made by Grant P. Hall that $5,000,000 is wasted annually in the schools characterized Colonel Ford's talk.

"I deny that $5,000,000 is being wasted on education," he stated. "I do not deny that money is being wasted through a system of local self-government; but I do say that there is not a business man in the city of Charleston who is not wasting at least some money in the conduct of his private business."

Dr. Caldwell's 3 Rules Keep You Healthy

Dr. Caldwell watched the result of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

First for Finer Flavor—No Throat Irritation—No Cough

"Roxy," a favorite in Radio-land, writes:

"During a strenuous rehearsal, with the work entailed in operating the World's Largest Theatre, where one's nervous system is working under great pressure, there is nothing quite like a 'Lucky Strike' cigarette. It does not impair the voice, and gives the mental relaxation so essential to carry on."

Giuseppe Danise

11,105* doctors give written opinions.

WHAT is the quality that Giuseppe Danise, Queena Mario, Adam Didur, Antonio Cortis, Nanette Guilford, Wilton Lackaye, Lenore Ulric, "Roxy," and other famous singers, actors, broadcasters and public speakers have found that makes LUCKY STRIKES delightful and of no possible injury to their voices?

For the answer we turned to medical men and asked them this question:

Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105* doctors answered this question "YES."

Consider what these figures mean; consider that they represent the opinion and experience of doctors, those whose business it is to know.

DIAPEPSIN KEEPS APPETITE YOUNG

If you have to force yourself to eat, and invariably get indigestion, sluggish headaches, and you are losing weight, excessive acidity is ruining your stomach.

This excess acid sours your food, turns it into sour bile and foul gases, and you are constantly nervous and upset.

Thousands of people credit their good health and young appetite to Pape's Diapepsin. It dissolves the acids and sweetens the stomach so you can eat anything you want. That's why 5 million packages are sold every year. Chew one or two of the tablets after meals, and you will never have indigestion, or be bloated.

All drug stores have Pape's Diapepsin.

"WAY OF FLESH" AT CERAMIC

Emil Jannings, International Screen Idol, Stars.

"The Way of All Flesh," the picture that fuses the greatest acting talent of the continent with the cream of the American production genius will be the attraction at the Ceramic theatre today, tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday.

Declared the most convincingly human story ever transferred to the screen "The Way of All Flesh" is the first American-made starring vehicle of Emil Jannings, international screen idol. Jannings is the actor whose Boss Mueller in "Variety" was agreed by all critics and exhibitors to be the outstanding film performance of 1926. He also won fame for his work as the hotel porter in "The Last Laugh" and as Henry VIII in "Deception."

All the resources of the Paramount studio in Hollywood were called upon during the production of "The Way of All Flesh." The best professional talent available was assembled around the facile star and the most efficient technical staff procurable in the film capital brought it to the screen.

Belle Bennett, famous for her "Stella Dallas" portrayal, plays Jannings' wife with a sympathetic understanding that is declared inspirational. Phyllis Haver, epitomization of blonde loveliness, is the other woman.

"The Way of All Flesh" was directed by Victor Fleming, who made "The Rough Riders," "Mantrap," "The Blind Goddess," "Lord Jim" and many other remarkable successes. The story was prepared by Lajos Biro and Jules Furthman.

The United States leads the world in production of rosin, turpentine and sulphur.

How THE Other Half Behaves

It Should Have Been Life Sentence. NEW YORK CITY—Daniel Cohen, a taxicab, saw Quigley, a policeman, hand a summons slip to a motorist for speeding. He was in high spirits and felt like teasing. "Why don't you hand me one of those, I want to find out what color they are," he laughed. Quigley's dignity was ruffled, but a little later he again eyed Cohen and observed that his badge was displayed incorrectly. "You have been wanting to see the color of these, so here's one," he said. Cohen paid $5.00 in court.

Duck Saved From Drowning. ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Two sturdy lifeguards heard a great howl and rushing to the pier saw little John L. Young, two years old, desolate because his pet duck fell into the water. Without hesitation the two guards jumped into a row boat and with all their might rowed to the spot where the duck was splashing lustily and saved it from drowning.

"BIG PARADE" AT AMERICAN

Combat Thrills of 1917-18 Shown on Screen.

With the coming of "The Big Parade" to the American theatre today return the combat thrills of 1917-1918 when America joined the war.

The doughboys, the officers, the tremendous mass push through the Argonne, the hand-to-hand fighting that cleaned out enemy trenches and machine gun nests, have been reproduced, not like the war propaganda pictures of that period, but in the intimate realism of the saner ten years' view. It is the doughboy's story—his, and the story of the girl back of the lines who also drank of war's dread cup. Laurence Stallings wrote it. King Vidor directed it.

John Gilbert as Jim Apperson "mopping up" the German nest shows a frenzy that only those who have lost a "buddy" in battle can know. Bull O'Hara, the other surviving "buddy," cries out: "D—n this war! They cheer us when we leave, and cheer us when we return, but what's it all about?"

An Incident.

Nearing the end of the awful cleanup, Jim spares a bayonet thrust, and soothes the last moments of his wounded foe by the proffered solace of a cigarette.

Pioneer work through the Forest, skulking from cover to cover, taking it on the run across leas and meadows, meeting the enemy in the open in widely spread formations, putting on the gas masks, employing in trench and shell holes just captured, going over the top again and again, the Yanks show the mettle that was embodied in an Argonne Commander's famous answer: "We will not go back, and we are ready!"

But King Vidor has sought in "The Big Parade" not only some of the myriad thrills of this colossal fields of Mars, but equally the humor and romance. He was aided by the wide experience of Laurence Stallings, author of the story, and by the co-operation of several American Legion posts. The men worked for weeks with John Gilbert, Karl Dane and Tom O'Brien.

BROTHER OF SLAIN WOMAN TURNS GUNS ON REMUS

DEFENDS DODGE, MYSTERY MAN IN DEATH CASE

Charges "Bootleg King" Introduced Wife to Dry Agent.

LETTERS HELD

Instructed to "Play Up" to Federal Agent, is Claim.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 10.—"George Remus introduced my sister, Imogene Remus, to Franklin Dodge and told her to cultivate him regardless of what embarrassment it may cause her in the future," charged Harry Brown, brother of Mrs. Remus, this morning.

"I have in my possession letters in Remus' own handwriting instructing her to play up to him because he was the last chance to help him get out of jail." These letters will be turned over to County Prosecutor Charles P. Taft to assist him in the prosecution of George Remus.

"Regardless of what statements George Remus gives to the public," added Harry Brown, "they will be nothing but a mass of lies unless he tells of his true relations with my sister."

"This is the last statement the members of her family will issue. We would not be making this one but for the fact that Remus continues to sit in his cell and boast of his deed."

"My family and I feel that we are compelled to let the world know the wrongs this poor woman, my sister, has gone through."

Threatened Her Life, He Says.

"He has threatened her life innumerable times and she has lived for the past two and half years in constant fear of her life."

"Remus tells of Imogene looting his home in Cincinnati. It's ridiculous. We have cancelled checks showing that my sister bought every piece of furniture, paintings, books and what not in that house. That home was not cleaned out because she wanted the things in it but because Remus feared vandals would clean it out while he was locked up in Atlanta. Every piece of furniture that was in the house is in storage in Cincinnati."

"In addition, on their wedding day, Remus gave my sister the deed to the 'Dream Palace.' There are plenty of witnesses to that. Why should he now try to claim that home as his? He gave it to her. 'Remus made Imogene mortgage the home after threats of death to Blanch Watson, of Covington, for $35,000. This money was used in part to buy Jack Daniels' Distillery at St. Louis. This same distillery Remus and his cohorts milked of 3,000 barrels of booze. Remus was later indicted for this and the best evidence that he is wrong is that he turned evidence on 32 of his pals to save himself. To show his gratitude to his wife he also included her among the gang. The courts, however, freed her and threw her case out of court."

Tells of Visits to Prison.

Here Brown went on to talk of Mrs. Remus' visit to the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, Ga., while Remus was serving his sentence there, and of the attentions he claims she showered upon her husband.

"She bought bed, mattresses and blankets and even became the official cook for the prisoner," said Brown, "just because she wanted to make George comfortable."

RECALL GRIM WAGERS WITH DEATH AS RUSSELL SCOTT HANGS SELF

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Grim wagers with death, made by three murderers, were recalled here today with the death of Russell Scott, who chose suicide by hanging in the county jail here as final disposition of his long legal battle to cheat the gallows.

Scott and Bernard Grant, youthful slayer of a policeman and Richard Loeb, murderer of Robert Franks, occupied adjoining cells in jail here while awaiting trial.

"What odds will you give me that none of us goes to the gallows?" Loeb asked a newspaperman.

"A hundred to one," was the answer.

"We'll take the same bet," spoke up Grant and Scott.

"I might not be able to pay if I lost," laughed Loeb.

Today Loeb is serving a life sentence. Grant was stabbed to death by a fellow inmate and Scott lies in a morgue, a suicide.

He Will Make Address at Kiwanis Dinner Tonight.

United States Senator Frank B. Willis, of Ada, will be the principal speaker at a dinner to be held by the Wellsville Kiwanis club tonight in the First Presbyterian church, Riverside avenue.

Senator Willis will discuss United States territories and insular possessions.

Dinner will be served by women of the church at 6:30 o'clock.

Blaze Damages House Roof.

The Central fire department was called to the home of J. L. Lokan, 1100 Vine street, at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon to extinguish a blaze, originating in the roof from chimney sparks.

"It was at this jail Mrs. Remus met Franklin Dodge. She received a call at her hotel one afternoon to rush to the jail to meet an important friend. She did this and the man was Dodge. It was then she received her instructions to play up to Dodge. These instructions were however repeated many times in letters and by word before the break up."

Burial Place Secret.

"Remus makes much about Dodge and Mrs. Remus being together at the Commodore hotel, New York City. If he wanted to tell the truth he would let the world know that I was registered in the same room with Dodge four floors below that of my sister. He knows that Dodge was there for the purpose of helping a poor devil at Atlanta."

Harry Brown also said that he expected the return of the family by Monday night. He refused to say where his sister was being buried other than she was being placed in a private mausoleum out of the state.

He said the funeral would probably be held by Sunday.

Body Taken to Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Brought here for burial by relatives who desire to shield her from publicity, the body of Mrs. Imogene Holmes Remus, slain by her husband, George Remus, in Cincinnati, laid in state in undertaking rooms here today.

Plans for the funeral will not be completed until tomorrow, it was announced.

Yaqui Indians in Spotlight.

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 10.—Ten thousand Yaqui Indian tribesmen scattered throughout Sonora held the spotlight in the Mexican revolution today, with the events following the killing of Alfonso De La Huerta, rebel leader, tentatively obscuring the future plans of Mexican federal forces.

General Pablo Macias, Sonora division commander, with his aides, has Sonora federal forces ready for an immediate campaign against "subsequent outbreaks."

"We await advice here before proceeding, but are confident that the Yaqui difficulty has been disposed of," Macias said. "The surrender of Chief Luis Matuz with four hundred Yaquis and self is significant."

American mining men returning from southern Sonora, however, expressed doubt concerning the reported surrender, explaining the move was probably one to disrupt the concentration of Indian masses.

"The Yaquis, embittered by the move to deprive them of their lands, homes and cattle, have become nomadic pillagers and only want leaders to transform them into formidable fighting men," said August Burns, Hollywood mining man, who recently returned here from Mexico.

BOMBER LOSES LIFE AS FIVE DIE IN BLAST

New York Tenement House Wrecked by Explosion.

ONE MAN FLEES

Body of Suspect Mangled Beyond Recognition.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Belief that one of the perpetrators of the bombing of a tenement house here Saturday, when five persons were killed, lost his own life in the blast, was expressed today by investigating detectives.

One of the bodies, mangled beyond recognition, is believed by the authorities to be that of an Italian who, with an accomplice who escaped, is suspected of being the manufacturer of the deadly bomb.

A thorough investigation of the ruins by a squad of picked detectives has led to two theories. One is that the bombing was accidental, the internal machine exploding while in process of completion, killing its maker and four innocent residents of the house. Another is that the bomb was planted in revenge against Andrew Coriello, a barber and owner of the tenement, and that the device was so cleverly wired that it was detonated when Mrs. Theresa Coriello, wife of the owner, switched on the lights in her parlor.

There is evidence to bear out either of these theories, but a more exhaustive investigation will be made in an effort to determine definitely the cause.

Meanwhile, a city-wide manhunt was being pushed for the other Italian suspect. Police believe he may be implicated in the bombing of two subway stations during the Sacco-Vanzetti disorders last August. An unexploded bomb, believed similar to that which wrecked the tenement, was found in the tracks of the L. R. T. subway, in the tunnel beneath the East river, a short time before the two stations were partially wrecked by blasts.

Th similarity between the two bombs led police to believe that the two Italians, who had rooms in the tenement and who are suspected of the bomb manufacture, may have been the perpetrators of the other outrages. The two suspects rented the apartment a month ago. They did not work, and, according to the police, were seen carrying mysterious boxes and packages into their rooms from time to time.

Two women, two children and the unidentified man were killed in the blast.

WELLSVILLE MAN IS FINED $100

William McLean, Wellsville, was fined $100 and costs by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today when he entered a plea of guilty to a charge of possessing intoxicating liquors.

McLean was arrested in Cherry alley by Chief of Police McElravy at 1 o'clock last night. Police claim that he threw a gallon jug, containing about a quart of whisky, into the Carnegie library lot when he saw them approaching. The bottle, however, failed to break and police seized it as evidence.

McLean was still in jail at the noon hour but friends were arranging to pay his fine this afternoon, police said.

Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

LINDY ESCORT PLANE CRASHES, FLYER UNHURT

Naval Airman Forced to Swim After "Bus" Plunges.

MACHINE WRECKED

Dives Into River as Colonel Nears New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 10.—While circling about the airport here in welcome to Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who was returning from the Pensacola naval air station, Lieutenant-Commander Davis of Pensacola crashed into the Mississippi river early this morning and was forced to swim to safety. His plane was wrecked but Davis was unhurt.

Colonel Lindbergh spent 40 minutes cruising the country near the landing field in the Spirit of St. Louis, hunting the plane before it was sighted in the river. Colonel Lindbergh had landed while Davis was circling about and a few minutes later, it was discovered that Davis had disappeared. Colonel Lindbergh immediately took to the air in search for him, but by the time he sighted the wrecked plane, Davis swam to the bank on the other side of the river.

After Davis had telephoned of his safety, Lindbergh took off at 7:50 a. m. for Jacksonville, Fla., nearly two hours behind schedule.

LAND IS SOUGHT FOR NEW BRIDGE

Condemnation proceedings have been instituted by the Brooke county court for properties belonging to I. Sulzbacher, A. G. Lee and William Beall of Steubenville, and located in Brooke county through which plans call for the construction of a highway by the West Virginia state road commission, to the new Weirton-Staubenville bridge.

In securing right-of-ways for the state road commission of West Virginia the Brooke county court found it necessary to plan the Weirton-Staubenville bridge approach highway through properties belonging to Sulzbacher, Lee and Beall. The new route having been planned on a different course than the old Ferry road now used as a road to the bridge location.

Controversy arising over securing the properties for the highway, forced the court to condemn the property, through court order and make arrangements for a public hearing on the matter in the circuit court of Brooke county.

Thirteen free-holders of Brooke county will be named by Judge J. B. Sommerville, who will preside at the hearing, and the amount awarded for the property by the jury of free-holders will be paid by the county for the right-of-ways.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OBSERVANCE

The West Virginia district, comprising the communities in Brooke and

Hancock county, will observe Fire Prevention week, beginning on Monday and continuing throughout the next week.

The slogan "Keep Down Fires" will be the basis for the week in each community for the observance of a national issue.

An aim during the week will be to have fire alarms, whistles and gongs silenced and to have no fires and not even a single alarm sounded. In keeping with the observance of the week, the various departments will make trial runs with their trucks, as a matter of being "prepared."

Fire Prevention week, is being observed nationally for the week of October 9th to the 15th. Civic governments in local, state and national circles have asked that everyone give thought to the object of the week observance and to lend a hand in keeping a clean record in fire prevention for not only that period of time, but as much as possible, for all time.

The West Virginia, Northern Panhandle district, is well equipped in the matter of fire protection and records reveal but a small per cent of loss from fires, in the district over a year's period.

Station, Chester,
Aid to Motorists

The Lincoln Service Station, in Carolina avenue, Chester, situated between Fourth and Fifth streets, has established a high standard of service in attending to the wants of district automobile drivers, with satisfactory results and courteous treatment to all its patrons outstanding items in its daily program.

At the Lincoln service station motorists can expect the best in the way of oiling and greasing, changing the lubricant in the crank case, washing, keeping brakes to the highest point of efficiency and many other details little in themselves perhaps, but mighty important to insure the proper performance of the car.

Raybestos brake lining is used exclusively and perfect results are guaranteed, says Manager D. H. Irwin, through installation by special machinery designed for the purpose. Irwin also carries an extensive line of Prest-O-Lite batteries, with charging and serving as additional features.

The Lincoln Service station is open seven days a week.

Bowling Season Will Open This Evening At Liberty Alleys

The bowling season opens today at the Liberty Bowling alleys, on the Diamond, and Forbes "Scotty" Aleck, the manager, extends a cordial invitation to all of his old friends and patrons to try out their "shooting" eye at this up-to-date establishment.

The Liberty is modern and minutely fitted out in equipment and well situated to provide first class facilities for one of the leading winter sports.

A lot of us, like the hibernating bears, are in the habit of "digging in" in the winter, and, as a result, find ourselves all out of condition by the time the next robin gets around. Bowling is probably one of the most healthful indoor sports yet devised by anyone, and the large increase yearly in the followers of the game attests to its growing popularity.

The Liberty Bowling alleys provide a clean, healthful means of indulging in the sport. Well regulated as any business establishment might be, it caters to a good class of people. The alleys are always kept in first class condition as well as all other accessory equipment.

Naylor and Travis
Ready to Put Your Car in Winter Trim

While an automobile may operate satisfactorily during the summer time and the warmer days of the fall of the year, it must be in perfect condition to deliver the miles per gallon and the utmost in service during the cold days of winter and now is the time, if ever, to see that it is put into the condition that will bring about these results.

The firm of Naylor and Travis, located in Summit lane, at the rear of Dr. Hobbs' office, is eminently fitted to perform this work for you, specializing in repair and inspection work.

The company's force of mechanics has been augmented by the addition of Mr. Vaughn, expert mechanic and repairman, and is now in excellent shape to take care of your work.

A suggestion to the motorist is to take the car to Naylor and Travis immediately. Your work can be attended to right way, or at most, on a few days' notice, depending on the size of the job, and it'll be ready to give you carefree transportation for the rest of the winter.

Naylor & Travis specialize on repair and care of Buicks, but are highly skilled on practically any other make of machine, as well.

Let Kinsey & Sons Put Your Furnace In Tip-Top Shape

Every year, when the first cold day comes, every heating man in town has his hands full answering emergency calls. People have tried to start their heating plants and found something wrong. They say uncomplimentary things about the plant because it won't work, and about the heating man because he can't get there in five minutes.

All that trouble might be eliminated simply by having the heating plant gone over now by competent experts, such as the W. C. Kinsey and Sons company. A minor adjustment now will mean a saving—the trouble won't be aggravated by trying to force a fire. And you'll have the satisfaction of knowing that your heating plant will work when you want it to work.

Now's the time to get your heating man on the job. You'll get quicker service and you'll probably avoid anything but minor adjustments. Just telephone and Kinsey and Sons will send a competent man immediately to check over your plant.

John S. Cundiff is
Agent for Famous
Sundale Furnaces

The Sundale furnace, with latest improvements, is just the thing to baffle Jack Frost's icy blasts this winter and now is the time to get in touch with John S. Cundiff, expert in heating and sheet metal work.

The Sundale, made by the Ravenna Furnace & Heating company, at Ravenna, O., built plainly with heavy, large capacity firepot and self-cleaning radiator, is a known leader in the furnace world. Its design provides for the most effective radiation.

The Sundale gives you:
The best direct shaker lever in use.
Deep cut joints with double flange to make joints rigid.

Large grate surface—meaning capacity.

Lowest cost of maintenance.
Extension flue running from smoke pipe to center of dome.

Self-cleaning radiator, not the soot-clog-up kind.
Provision for reception of water coil.

All cast, the best heat radiator.
Less parts than any other furnace.

Doak and Laber Can Help You Get Rid Of Spring Troubles

Springs manufactured by the Pittsburgh Auto Spring company are probably one of the most reliable parts of your automobile equipment, and especially if they are installed by Doak & Laber, automobile experts, you can be certain of comfortable, dependable low cost performance for a long long time.

The winter time, with its cold, frosty air, is the hardest time of the season on springs, according to auto experts. Springs with perhaps a little spot in them are liable to give way at any time under a jolt that, in warmer weather might have no effect at all.

So, if, in the future, you meet with a condition such as this, just remember Doak & Laber, and Pittsburgh springs, and have them make the repairs. You'll be sure of that spring, anyway.

And it's not a bad idea to have your car looked over at Doak & Laber's now, before the early winter rush starts. Both men are expertly qualified in this work. Mr. Laber served as a trench manager for a number of years before going into business for himself and Mr. Doak as an inspector.

Hurst's Gridders Resume Work For East Palestine Contest

RUMOR BUCS MAY SEND KIKI CUYLER TO CINCINNATI

NORTH COUNTY SQUAD SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Lick Salineville Decisively, 19-0; Salem Loses at Struthers; Bellaire and Martins Ferry are Victors.

In tip-top physical condition, with one or two exceptions, Joe Hurst's high school squad, forced to take their football via radio, or from the sidelines Saturday as a result of an open date in the schedule, are back at work this afternoon at Patterson Field in preparation for the game with East Palestine next Saturday.

October Is Month Of Grid Upsets

Yale, Harvard, Brown Fall Before Surprise Elevens.

By Malcolm Roy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—"And the weak shall be strong and the strong weak" may be too free a paraphrasing of the old scriptural text but none the less it sums up fairly accurately the football situation of this early October setting in the year 1927. Perhaps no other October Saturday in the near or remote past has seen such an overthrowing of favorites as was witnessed last Saturday afternoon when there was an almost complete reversal of form up and down the Atlantic seaboard and even to points far inland. Out of the welter of topsy-turvy scores the most unexpected happenings were those at New Haven, where Yale succumbed to a stout-hearted Georgia team by a score of 14 to 0. And at Cambridge, where Harvard is still quivering from the shock of a 19 to 0 setback at the hands of Purdue of the western conference.

Pennsylvania turned in one of the biggest surprises of the day by upsetting the supposedly invincible "Iron men" of Brown by a score of 14 to 0. But there were other reversals quite as disastrous in their sphere as these three major upheavals. Colgate, regarded as one of the best teams of the east, was defeated, 6 to 0, by Virginia Polytechnic Institute. Hugo Rezek's Penn State eleven, always there or thereabouts when the final accounts of the season are added, came a cropper by a score of 13 to 7 at the hands of Bucknell.

Alabama Held to Tie. Maryland, conqueror of Yale last season, fell before North Carolina by a single point in a 7 to 6 battle and even Alabama, than whom there was none stronger a year ago, was held to a 0 to 0 tie scored by Louisiana State down at Birmingham. In the west, Nebraska was turned back by Missouri, 7 to 6, in a game Nebraska had counted as good as won. Any more upsets than these would probably call for a drastic revision of schedules, but as it is the balance of the season assumes a somewhat scrambled aspect unless Saturday's fallen heroes suddenly came to life again. Yale's chief difficulties, as viewed from the sidelines, were an inability to hold on to the ball, failure to provide interference, especially to the receivers of kicks and passes, and a general sluggishness in line play. But crowning all these faults is the fact that the line is apparently only a one man football eleven and that one man is the veteran Bruce Caldwell. Without Caldwell on the field the Yale eleven was worse than a ship without a rudder. Yale made nine fumbles.

Over-Confidence Fells Browns. Over-confidence seems to have been Brown's strongest foe in the early periods against Pennsylvania and then the Quakers' plan of dogging the Bears on every play bore fruit when Paul Seultz intercepted a pass and ran for a touchdown. Penn played a beautiful defensive game from start to finish and had the scoring punch when the opportunity offered. Harvard was decisively and soundly beaten by a Purdue eleven which outplayed and outmanned the Crimson. Only once did Harvard have the ball beyond midfield. It was outmanned almost three yards to one. Its line was outcharged both on defense and on attack and its backs were stopped virtually in their tracks. Princeton, Cornell, Dartmouth and Syracuse all had comparatively easy games which ran true to form and the same was true of the local elevens, Columbia and New York university.

Pittsburgh swamped West Virginia, 40 to 0, and Lafayette smothered Rutgers. Army and Navy played a better each scored by Marquette and Drake, respectively, but won by comfortable margins.

Notre Dame Wins. Notre Dame won again, as usual, this time at the expense of the University of Detroit, coached by Rockne's old sidekick, Gus Dorais. Chicago got out of the doldrums to defeat Indiana and Northwestern used out Utah in a close battle, 13 to 6.

Ohio State, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa State and Illinois all performed up to expectations. On the Pacific coast, California defeated Mt. Mary's, which had previously defeated Stanford.

For some reason or other, the picnic as an institution still survives in spite of showers, ants and falling in love.—Martins Ferry Times.

Ruth Breaks Flock of Records; Jake Ruppert Real Hero — He Applauds as Yanks Win Fourth and Break up Series.

By Les Conklin.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Although the 1927 world series failed to produce an outstanding hero, the best playing was done by Marcus Aurelius Koenig, shortstop of the Yankees. Mark's performance was especially noteworthy in that he was the official "goat" of the 1926 series.

Koenig led the regulars in batting with a juicy average of .500 and fielded perfectly. With him out of the lineup, the Huggan never would have scuttled the Pirates in four straight games.

John Miljus, Pittsburgh pitcher, had a chance to become the hero of the classic when he fanned Gehrig and Menzel with the bases loaded in the ninth inning of the finale. But he let the winning run trickie across the plate on a wild pitch, and thus became the "goat" of the last game.

He Did It Last Year.
 Herb Pennock pitched a three-hit game against the Pirates, but he also performed that stunt against the Cardinals last year. In the general excitement attending his feat this year, not one fan in ten recalled that fact.

Babe Ruth hit two homers, but that seems like a slump for the big slapper, who once remembers what he did against the Cardinals last year.

The real hero of the series was Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees. When the Yanks won on Saturday, erasing the golden prospect of a $200,000 Sunday gate, the good colonel led the applause.

Ruth Shatters Records.
 Purchasers of tickets for the fifth game can get their money back by mailing the tickets to the Yankee office here.

Babe Ruth's two homers gave him 126 for his entire career. His ten homers for the series broke his own former record of eight. The Bambino broken seven other world series records. His complete series batting mark is now .275.

The Pirate regulars who fell down were Glenn Wright, who batted only 154, Joe Harris and Pie Traynor, who batted 200, and the catchers, who failed to get a hit between them. Menzel, with a horrible mark of .118, was the only Yankee weakening.

Urban Shocker and Dutch Ruether, two of New York's best pitchers, failed to get into the series. They, with their team mates, each will receive $5,702, however. Ruether also failed to get into the 1925 series when Washington played Pittsburgh.

Combs is Daddy.
 The members of the Yankees were scattering to their homes today. Earl Combs was speeding to Kentucky to see for the first time a six-week-old baby daughter, born during the season.

Menzel, Lazzeri and Moore left for their homes in the west. Koenig, Shawkey and Bengough will go hunting, and Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig are scheduled for a barnstorming tour.

The Pirates are in Pittsburgh. How they felt about their crushing defeat was indicated in a report that Glenn Wright had been arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

WOULD SEEK KELLY AND CRITZ IN DEAL

May Even Take Second Baseman Alone, Reports Say, and Use George Grantham at First; Robby Would Trade Petty.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Pittsburgh baseball fans have made their last call for Kiki Cuyler. The Pirates won the National league championship but went down to defeat before the New York Yankees with Cuyler held on the bench on orders from Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh owner.

Cuyler will be placed on the block this winter. There are just seven clubs in the National league that would be glad to take Cuyler off Pittsburgh's hands at advantageous terms. First and foremost is New York. McGraw would trade on liberal terms for Cuyler. But because of the age old feud between McGraw and Dreyfuss, Cuyler is out so far as the Giants are concerned.

Right now the chatter boxes say that Kiki will go to Cincinnati in exchange for George Kelly and Hughie Critz, or for Critz alone if the other deal cannot be swung. If the Pirates get Critz, they will shift Grantham to first base.

Wilbert Robinson, president and manager of the Dodgers, is willing to give Jess Petty to Pittsburgh for Cuyler and Rhyne.

Purdue Startles East, Beating Harvard; Chicago Shows Power

Halfback Libby Rises as New Maroon Star; Ohio State Has Big Job Licking Iowa.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Dopesters today confronted two major upsets in the games played by Western Conference teams Saturday—upsets calculated to define the possible winners of the conference championship.

To begin with, Stagg's lowly rated Maroons of 1927—one of the weakest teams in the football history of the University of Chicago—became obsessed with the lust for victory and trampled upon Indiana's eleven by a score of 13 to 0.

Hoping to accomplish little more than to hold its own again the confident Hoosier gridders, the Maroons broke loose in the second half. With the substitution of Vincent Libby at right halfback for Mendenhall, things began to happen.

While all this was going on, Purdue was making history—and the other upset—in the effete east, bringing anguish to the bosom of some 40,000 rooters for dear old Harvard by walloping the once mighty eastern gridders in Harvard's historic stadium in Cambridge, Mass., to the tune of 19 to 0.

It was the first victory ever gained over Harvard by a Western Conference team, and it served to boost the Big Ten's national rating.

Welch Is Star
 In the last 50 years Harvard has played in 26 intersectional contests, only to be beaten once before by Centre college in 1921, and now again by Purdue.

And Purdue was handicapped, in a sense, by the absence of Capt. Chester Wilcox, main coz in the Boilermakers' aggregation but the handicap was not vital for one Ray Welch, unknown sophomore, stepped into the captain's place at left halfback, and although it was his first game, ran wild off the Crimson tackles, made mad dashes through the Harvard middle, and scored two touchdowns. Koransky at fullback also distinguished himself.

Another intersectional game, at Dyche stadium in Evanston, Ill., gave rooters for Northwestern's doctory eleven quite a scare before the Wildcats settled down to normal form and licked the visiting gridders from Utah, 1926 Rocky Mountain Conference champion, 13 to 6.

Game Is Ragged
 The game was raggedly played at times by the Wildcats, who take on championship contenders next Saturday in Ohio State. The Northwestern men seemed overconfident. On defense the men were listless. Caldwell and Haas, substitute players for the Wildcats, scored touchdowns.

At Iowa City, Iowa, Ohio State, regarded potentially as the strong team in the Big Ten this season, defeated Iowa university's eleven, 13 to 6, but showed far from championship form. Six of the Buckeyes' total was due to a scooped fumble after the first formation in the completed just one, while Coach Ingwersen's Hawkeyes got away with seven for a total of 98 yards.

Gophers In Form

Outside of Chicago's Maroons and the fighting Boilermakers, the team that ran at least true to form was Minnesota's Gophers, who, as hosts to the Oklahoma Aggies, walloped the visitors, 40 to 0. Almuist led the attack with the silling Capt. Herb Joesting still on the sidelines.

Down at Lawrence, Kas., the Badgers were showing the University of Kansas' eleven how football is played when it is played right by Big Ten teams, and incidentally giving the home team a pleasant little lapping to the tune of 26 to 6. Crofoot and Rose of the Wisconsin eleven forward-passed and plunzed their way through the opposition for two touchdowns each. Only for a brief moment in the third quarter did Kansas show power, taking the ball to Wisconsin's 40-yard line.

Scales Lofly Peak

Miss Sheila MacDonald, 22-year-old daughter of Claude MacDonald, of London, noted Alpine climber, is the first woman to scale Kilimanjaro, highest mountain peak in Africa, 19,321 feet high. Only four men have duplicated the feat of Miss MacDonald, who has been climbing mountains since she was 12.

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON

NO SATURATION.

Those who are nervous about the increasing number of motor cars and talk so much about the traffic saturation point ought to study the road situation. Not more than 10 percent of the three million miles of roads in this country are in good condition. In fact we have little more than 250,000 miles of hard surfaced roads. With rapid building of good roads automobile traffic will be nothing to worry about. APES OR NOT.

A famous scientist has declared that proof has now been absolutely established that man is descended from the ape. That is interesting, but it has little bearing on what man ought to do now.

THE "FEEL" OF BUSINESS.

Midsummer is a dull time in many lines, and there has been some complaint about business or the lack of it. But with autumn at hand there is a new "feel" in the air and in business. Times are not bad and have not been. There has been temporary dullness—and that period gives promise of being on the way out.

THE GREAT COLLEGE.

The Great College will not be a trade school, or a school for any kind of vocational training. Neither will it be a fossilized institution where the time is given to learning names, places, and dates. It will not be a place where the student will endeavor to take on a store of learning which he will find inapplicable to life when he gets out in the world. The Great College will prepare young men and women to face the problems of life. It will prepare them for living thoughtfully. It will teach them the value of a human being and what the possibilities of the human being in this world are.

YOU CAN'T BEAT IT.

Much talk about saving life by preventing flying contests and the like. The race to Honolulu was a sad affair, but it won't prevent other races. You can't call off humanity. You can't beat the human spirit. The healthiest men and women have adventure the most. The call of dancer will always be answered by the world's leaders.

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN MONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

But Sally was sure that her mother was wrong. For she had seen Millie in tantrums before, and they never had been like this. They had been violent storms of weeping, violent sports dress, and her stockings and shoes. And while she worked, Millie never stopped her groans, and never once stopped turning and twisting in her pain. Perspiration—cold as rain—

"When Love is Kind" was the foolish title, and for one fleeting instant Sally forgot Millie and wondered if love ever was kind to anyone. "Certainly not to me," she thought, briefly glancing across the room to you and Mr. Nye tonight?" asked Sally, frowning. It was always hard for her to say "Mr. Nye" when she always thought of him as "John" in her own secret soul. "Indeed she did NOT!" snapped Mrs. Jerome. "Sally, what's wrong with you? Can't you remember anything? Didn't I just finish telling you that she ran off somewhere with Nye and left me here without a bite to eat? And I just made up my mind I would not get myself anything if I never ate again! To think of a woman having two grown daughters, and having to get her own meals! Well, I just said to myself I wouldn't, and I didn't! So I knew I wasn't feeling well, too, when she rushed out with that man of hers!"

"He was going out of town, and they probably wanted to be alone," Sally began soothingly but Mrs. Jerome went right on:

"No such thing! She was just too lazy to get a bite of food ready for the three of us! Mr. Nye wanted to buy some things from the delicatessen, but Millie said she wanted to go out, and go out they did! She certainly winds him around her little finger!"

The doorbell rang, and she turned heavily and lumbered away to let the doctor in. And he came quickly and quietly into the lamplit room. Millie's eyelids which had been closed for several moments, fluttered open and she gave him a drowsy glance.

"Pain—here," she mumbled thickly, and laid her hand on her side, just at the line of the hips. "Like two sharp knives—" Then she dropped off into her stupor once more.

With a jerk of his head, Dr. Ambleside ordered both Mrs. Jerome and Sally out of the room.

They stood just outside in the hall, looking at each other but never saying a word, for the next few minutes. Within they could hear the doctor's low voice every now and then, and presently Millie answered him.

Then the door opened and he came out.

"She's better," he said, setting his little black bag down on the floor beside him. "She says the pain has gone, and she's not sure just where it was. She says it was all over her body. I'll be here first thing in the morning, and if she has another attack tonight, call me up. Don't hesitate."

Then as quickly and quietly as he had come, he was gone.

Mrs. Jerome gave Sally a disgusted look. "Now, isn't that just like a fool doctor?" she exploded, when the door had closed behind him. "Never telling a person what's the matter! She might have gall stones, or appendicitis, or a dozen other things, and we'd never know it!" She opened the bedroom door and went in.

Millie was lying against the pillows, but her face was turned towards them now, and there was a tiny smile on her lips.

Looking at her, Sally knew that no matter what she did that was selfish and cruel and thoughtless, she would always love her—and love her as generously as she always had. "Why, if anything happened to her I'd die," she said to herself. "And if any girl is going to have John Nye, I'm glad that girl is Millie."

She leaned across the bed and kissed her. Millie smiled wearily up at her once more. Then she turned her face to the wall and went to sleep instantly, as sick people often do.

In the morning, when Sally left for the office, she was better, although she still had a fever.

"Better not give her anything to eat until the doctor gets here," were Sally's parting words to her mother. "You know what they say—'Starve a fever.'"

"Good food never hurt anybody," answered Mrs. Jerome, firmly. "But I'm not going near her unless she calls me. She's still cross about my giving that two hundred dollars to poor Beau, and I'm not going in there and let her hector me about it all this second day!"

"You're late!" Mr. Peevey greeted Sally when she walked in that day. "You're twelve minutes late!" He frowned down at his huge silver watch.

"I know it, and I'm sorry, but my sister's been sick in bed all morning," the girl answered, tossing her hat up on the hooks above the mirror. "And I had a little extra work to do."

Mr. Peevey shoved his glasses up on his forehead and glared at her thoughtfully. "That must be quite a family of yours," he said at the end of several minutes. "Are they all invalids?"

"Not quite," Sally grinned at him, showing a flash of white teeth and an adorable dimple. "Look at me! I could lick Dempsey, I'm so husky!"

Mr. Peevey gave his inimitable grunt. "Well, hurry up with my lunch," said he. "And I'll punish your typewriter, instead. We're getting behind with our letters lately."

It was towards the end of the unreasonably hot afternoon that he began to talk to her again about her own affairs.

"Well, I see our neighbor across the hall is on a little vacation," he said in his tart way, and nodded towards John Nye's office.

The door of it stood open, and within Sally could see Millie's assistant sitting idly at her desk, turning the pages of a magazine.

"Yes," said Sally, with a little catch in her voice. For every time she looked into that office she seemed to see John Nye, as she had seen him the first day standing beside the window, hands in pockets, whistling "High—high—up on the hill." How long ago that seemed!

"I thought maybe he and your sister had got married, when they were both gone today," remarked Mr. Peevey. "Sure that isn't what's happened?"

Sally flushed. "I told you my sister was home, sick in bed, Mr. Peevey," she answered, drawing herself up in the most dignified way.

"Oh, that's right, that's right. My mistake!" apologized Mr. Peevey, who remembered perfectly what she had said.

He was always trying to catch people in lies. He said they were all liars—especially women.

He never caught Sally in a falsehood yet. But he had not given up hope.

"There's Nye, now—Oh, no, it isn't!" he said, peering out into the hall in his near-sighted way. "I thought it was at first."

Turning sharply, Sally saw a large, familiar figure on the threshold of John Nye's office—Millie's Mr. Davidson.

He was asking in a loud voice for "Miss Millie Jerome." His voice drifted in to where Sally stood beside Mr. Peevey's desk.

"I'll go and tell him that Millie's ill, if you don't mind. He's a friend of hers," she said and went out into the hall.
